LEMON ELECTED PRESIDENT

Editors Listen To Rare Banquet-Table Oratory—Announcement of Prizes Awarded by Dawson Springs.

Western Newspaper Union News Service. Dawson Springs, Ky.-Kentucky hospitality was very much in evidence at the annual mid-summer meeting of the Kentucky Press association, which met in this popular summer resort. The Springs gave the editors a banquet in the dining-room of the New Century hotel. Praises of Dawson Springs were sung by several of the orators. The rest of the association patted itself upon its collective back in modest phrases. Officers for the ensuing year were chosen, the old promotion system being used. James R. Lemon, of Mayfield, was promoted from vice president to the presidency, and James B. Stears, of Nicholasville, was elected vice president. He was chairman of the executive committee during the present year. James B. Gaines, of Bowling Green, succeeded Mr. Stears. President Lemon announced the following men as members of the executive committee: R. J. McBryde, jr., Louisville; F. M. Thomason, Georgetown; Woodson May, Somerset, and John J. Berry, Paducah. MANY CONGRESSMEN ARE EÁGER TO QUIT MAKING LAWS AND MEND FENCES.

PRESIDENT IS INEXORABLE

Ital, He Insists on Work Being Completed-How Baseball Has Affected Legislation.

By GEORGE CLINTON. Washington.-There are many men over in the capitol whose greatest concern today is whether or not they will be able to hang on to their jobs in congress. Apparently they are not pleasantly disposed to a condition which compels them to stay here to discuss anti-trust legislation and other things. Perhaps some of these men northern market, the soil should be think there is no demand from the thoroughly worked up in the spring as country for this particular kind of legsoon as it is tillable, and the planting islation and perhaps they feel they will stand just as good a chance of election if the excuse of a more convenient season is found to put off the

LESSON FOR JUNE 21 THE GREAT REFUSAL.

LESSON TEXT—Mark 10:17-31.
GOLDEN TEXT—"Ye cannot serve God and mammon." Luke 16:13. (Read also

The story of this rich young ruler s one out of the ministry of our Lord that has made an indelible impression throughout every succeeding generation. This is so because it is so vital, vibrant and vivid a revelation of our every-day experience. The lesson naturally divides itself into two sections. Read carefully the parallel accounts; Matt. 19:16-30 and Luke 18:18-30. Man of Courage.

I. An Eager Young Man, vv. 17-22. This man is an arresting figure. Much may be said in his favor: (1) He was young (Matt. 19:22); (2) He was in earnest, "came running" (v. 17); (3) He was educated, "a lawyer," Luke 18:18; (4) He was rich, Mark 10:22; (5) He was loved by Jesus, Mark 10: 21. That he had lived a clean life is revealed by the answers he made to Jesus. Moreover he must have been of Estill county. a man of some courage, belonging as he did to the ruling class, the Pharisees, yet he came running into the presence of Jesus and cast himself at his feet. We need but to recall that this class was at this time definitely hostile to Christ, yet this young man dared to speak the conviction of his heart in this public way by calling Jesus, "good." We feel that he was an honest seeker after life. His question reveals the unrest of the human heart. It matters not what men may possess of wealth or position, these things do not bring heart rest. Great moral courage, noble aspirations and benevolence never will save nor fully satisfy the human soul. Man does not obtain life by doing, Gal. 2:16. Life is a gift, Rom. 6:23. We must not misunderstand the reply of Jesus (v. 18). Jesus did not deny being good, John 8:46; 14:30; 8:29, but he saw that this young man was filled with the idea of his own goodness. To say that Jesus was good was practically to say he was God. and this the young man did not mean. Jesus sought to reveal to friends by means of the mammon of unrighteousness; that when it shall fail they may receive you into the eternal tabernacles." This is exactly what Christ told this young man to do. "Sell . . . give to the poor." By thus using he would store up treasure in heaven. That he could not stand the test is evident from v. 22.

Perlis of Riches. II. The Master's Exhortation, vv. 23-31. As a great teacher and philosopher Jesus took this occasion to point out the perils of riches. Nearly every man is willing to run the risk. We have, however, but to look about us to see illustration after illustration of ly"-increased wealth, decreased piety "How hardly"—men seek to tone down this picture, but have no right so to

The only safety is found in the words of verse 27, "with God all things are possible." The most severe test possible to be given to a man's relig ious experience is for him to be prospered in wealth or position. The rich young ruler is an evidence of the fact that such a godless life is a restless

Notwithstanding his possessions, his refinement, the privileges of his position and a life so cleanly lived as to leave no vuigar moral scar, yet he exclaims: "What shall I do that I may inherit eternal life?" It was easier for the proverbial camel to have encered the city gate (or a literal needle's eye as you prefer) than for this young man to yield to God the control of his life. Every life is under control. A godless life is a self-controlled life. As men came to Jesus he saw perfectly their individual needs; their peculiar malady.

The disciples were amazed at the master's words and thought if a rich man cannot be saved there is hope for none. Such is not the meaning. man cannot be saved there is hope This is revealed in the reply to Peter's question. Men are saved irrespective of position or of possessions for God loves them all. Those who turn the control of their lives over to his keep ing, those who, no matter what their condition or position in life, follow him, leaving ail, or bringing all as the case may be, will have their reward here in this life and in the world to come, eternal life.

The one thing people most dread is poverty, so did Jesus and he saw that the possessions of this life so occupy. the time and attention of men as to impoverish their souls. Wealth is a trust. God looks upon every man, as Jesus beheld this young man, endowed with great possibilities and covets that life for high service. Are we more anxious to be rich than to be good? Is it not an evidence of selfishness to let those come after us distribute our wealth? To enjoy it, gloat over it and to use it for yourself, then dictate who, why, or how others may enjoy it is selfishness.

New Automobile Law

The new automobile law for Kentucky which goes into effect this week, while drastic in some Fresh Meats, Corn and Dried Beef respects has many good provisions. Among these we note: Making it a penalty for any child under sixteen to drive a car unless accompanied by parents or guardian. Another is providing a severe penalty for any one to drive a car while intoxicated. If this latter provision is enforced it will stop many of the horrible Boot and Shoe wrecks that attend automobiling. Nearly all the disastrous wrecks are caused by the drivers being under the influence of liquor. No part of the law should not be allowed to become a dead letbe allowed to become 'a dead letter.—Exchange.

Mrs. Broaddus Dead

Mrs. T. O. Broaddus, wife of our fellow townman, T.O. Broaddus, died at her home on Broadway, Friday morning, June 12, at 10:40 o'clock. She is survived by her husband and three children, Lillian, Lucile and Raymond.

Mrs. Broaddus was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus E. Moberly. Her father at one time lived in Estill county, and much of her young girl-hood was spent there. About twenty years ago she married T. O. Broaddus, who lived near Moberly, this county.

The funeral services were conducted by Dr. E. B. Barnes on Saturday afternoon at the residence, thence her interment in the Richmond Cemetery.

THEY MUST HUSTLE

THIS YEAR SENATORS HAVE TO GO DIRECTLY TO THE PEOPLE FOR RE-ELECTION.

WANT EARLY ADJOURNMENT

Coming Campaign Promises to Be Un usually Interesting and May See President Wilson, Taft and Rooseveit Ali'on Stump.

By GEORGE CLINTON.

Washington .- One reason why congress is anxlous to have an adjournment which will enable the members to get back into the political campaign field early is that this year United States senators who wish to be reelected must go directly to the people for their votes. This is the first time In the history of the country that senrepresentatives in the manner of election. The representatives need not extend their campaigning outside their districts, but a senator must take in

As Washington politicians view it, the coming campaign is to be an unusually interesting one, notwithstandquickly so that the motion is a coning that the Democrats claim that they not only will hold the house of repre sentatives by the present majority, but largely will increase it. The Republicans say there is business unrest and that many of the Democrats will lose their seats because of it. The Progressives assert they will elect more members of congress than they have at present because, as they declare, their principles and their platform are appealing more and more to the people. The Republicans of course are worried over the continuance in the field of the Progressives. They think perhaps that amalgamation of the two parties will be a matter of the near future, but as Washington views it amalgamation is just as far off as ever, and perhaps farther off than ever in one

> Roosevelt to this country. Mr. Roosevelt has reaffirmed the Progressive pledge which he gave just before he salled for South America. He is going to stump the country and is booked to speak in a good many districts where Republicans who were members of congress some years ago and who are known as extreme conservatives are to stand this year for re-election.

What Democrats Stand On.

The Democrats are to make their adjourns. The Democratic leaders say the administration's espousal of the cause of the repeal of the tolls exemption provision of the Panama act will not hurt their party in the coming elections in the least.

Both Republicans and Progressives are banking upon this tolls repeal matter to injure the Democratic members chances of re-election in districts that are in the least close. The leaders of Democracy say that they are not worried at all about the Republican and Progressive charge that the lower tarlff has hurt business, and that antitrust legislation will hurt it more. Most of the Progressives think antitrust legislation does not go far enough, while the Republicans think it goes too far, and so, as far as the campaign arguments are concerned, the representatives of these two parties will present different pleas to the peo-

Wilson to Take the Stump. It seems likely President Wilson will take the stump to make speeches for his party after congress adjourns, or, at any rate, at a time just prior to the elections. The fact that Theodore Roosevelt is to campaign has spurred the Democratic leaders to urge the president to do likewise. As far as can be learned, Mr. Wilson is thinking seriously at present only of entering the Pennsylvania campaign, where his party's candidate, Representative A. Mitchell Palmer, is running for senator against Gifford Pinchot, Progressive, and Boies Penrose, Republican. It is a concelvable thing that Pennsylvania will be the scene of the appearance of a president of the United States and two ex-presidents, each in an attempt to elect his party's candidate to the United States senatorship. Wilson will support Palmer, Taft may support Penrose and Roosevelt will support Pin-

While the interest in the congressional campaign, even at this early day, is marked in Washington, there are times when it is overshadowed by the interest in the campaign which is to come two years hence. Everybody wants to know if the Republicans are going to nominate Theodore Rosevelt and if there is any chance of the Republicans and the Progressives getting together behind this one man as a candidate? Some of the politicians figure it out that if the Republicans are to nominate Roosevelt they must hold their convention after the Progressive convention has been held, and niust accept all the Progressive

THE WOMAN WHO HELPED HER SISTER

There was once a Woman who had Read in a Book that the Best Way to Become Dear to a Man was to Cook Appetizing Dishes for Him. Therefore when a Nice Man Called on Her it was Her Custom to Retire to the Dining-room and Compose Delicious Lunches in a Chafing-dish, leaving her Sister to Entertain the Man till her Return. Her Sister would not Learn to Cook, because she did Not Care to.

One Day the Man invited the Woman to Go to the Theater with him.

THAT EVENING HE FELL IN LOVE WITH THE SISTER.

This she would have Liked to do Very Much, but she Remembered What she had Read, and replied:

"I will Tell you Something Better. Take my Sister to the Theater, and when you Come Home I will have a Nice Supper waiting For You." "Oh, very Well!" said the Man. That evening he Fell in Love with the Sister, and Some Time Later he asked her to Marry him.

"But I Thought it was My Sister you Came to See," said she; "and besides that I Fear I should Make a Poor Wife. I am Not Practical and I Cannot Cook."

"As to that," replied the Man, "I came at First, it is True, to see Your Sister, but I saw Very Little of her because she Stayed in the Diningroom So Much. So that I Grew to Admire You. And as for your Not Cooking, that is Easily Arranged. Your Sister can Live with Us and Manage All That very nicely."

The foregoing humorous paragraph shows that there is something radically wrong with conditions in the western states. We hear this statement in substance every year. We assume it to be a fact that each year at harvest time the western states are short on hands to the extent of forty to fifty thousand.

The harvest season lasts but only a short time and the unemployed of the east could not afford to pay their railroad fares, to to say nothing of giving up their homes, to go west for the short space of time for which their services would be needed. CHAPTER I—John Valiant, a rich se-siety favorite, suddenly discovers that the Valiant corporation, which his father counced and which was the principal source of his wealth, has failed.

CHAPTER II—He voluntarily turns over his private fortune to the receiver for the corporation.

CHAPTER III—His entire remaining possessions consist of an old motor car, a white bull dog and Damory court, a neglected estate in Virginia.

CHAPTER IV—He learns that this estate came into the family by royal grant and has been in the possession of the Valiants ever since CHAPTER V—On the way to Damory court he meets Shirley Dandridge, an auburn-haired beauty, and decides that he is going to like Virginia immensely.

CHAPTER VI-An old negro tells Shir-ley's fortune and predicts great trouble for her on account of a man.

CHAPTER VII-Uncie Jefferson, an old negro, takes Valiant to Damory court.

CHAPTER VIII—Shirley's mother, Mrs. Dandridge, and Major Bristow exchange reminiscences during which it is revealed that the major, Valiant's father, and a man named Sassoon, were rivals for the hand of Mrs. Dandridge in her youth. Sassoon and Valiant fought a duel on her account in which the former was killed.

CHAPTER IX—Vailant finds Damory court overgrown with weeds and creepers and the buildings in a very much neglected condition. Uncle Jefferson and his wife, Aunt Daphne, are engaged as CHAPTER XII—Valiant decides to re-habilitate Damory court and make the land produce a living for him.

CHAPTER XIII—He meets Shirley, who mas been gathering flowers on the Valiant estate, and reveals his identity to her. CHAPTER XIV-Valiant saves Shirley from the bite of a snake, which bites him. Knowing the deadliness of the bite, Shirley sucks the poison from the wound and CHAPTER XV—Shirley tells her mother of the incident and the latter is strangely moved at hearing that a Valiant is again living at Damory court.

CHAPTER XVI—Valiant learns some of the history of his family from Doctor Southall and Major Bristow.

CHAPTER XVII—He learns for the first time that his father left Virginia on account of a duel in which Doctor Southali and Major Bristow acted as his fathers's according CHAPTER XVIII-Valiant and Shirley become good friends. Mrs. Dandridge faints when she first meets Valiant.

CHAPTER XIX-Vallant works wonders in the old place. He discovers that he has a fortune in old walnut trees. CHAPTER XX-With the advice and assistance of the major and Shirley, Val-iant restores the gardens to what they were in his father's time.

CHAPTER XXI—The yearly tournament, a survival of the jousting of feudal times, is to be held at Damory court. CHAPTER XXII-At the last moment Valiant takes the place of one of the knights, who is sick, and enters the lists. CHAPTER XXIII—He wins and chooses Shiriey Dandridge as queen of beauty to the dismay of Katharine Fargo, a former sweetheart, who is visiting in Virginia.

CHAPTER XXIV—The tournament ball at Damory court draws the eite of the countryside. Shirley is crowned by Val-

The Evening of an Old Score. Rat-tat-tat-tat!-Major Bristow's ivory-headed camphor-wood stick thumped on the great door of Damory court. The sound had a tang of impatience, for he had used the knocker more than once without result. Now he strode to the end of the porch and raised his voice in a stentorian bellow that brought Uncle Jefferson shuffling around the path from the kitchens with all the whites of his eyes showing.

"You dog-gone lazy rascal!" thundered the major. 'What do you mean, sah, by keeping a gentleman cooling his heels on the door-step like a taxcollector? Where's your master?"

"Fo' de Lawd, Major, Ah ain' seen Mars' John sence dis mawnin'. Staht out aftah breakfas' en he nevah showed up ergin et all. Yo' reck'n whut de mattah, suh?" he added anxiously. "'Peahs lak sumpin' preyin' on he mind. Don' seem er bit hese't

"Pshaw!" said the major. 'Touch of spring fever, I rackon. Aunt Daph feeds him too weil. Give him less fried chicken and more ash-cake and buttermilk. Make him some juleps." The old negro shook his head. "Moghty neah use up all dat mintbaid Ah foun'." he said, "but ain' do no good. Majah, Ah's sho' 'feahed

'Ant'y, he know! He see trouble ercomin' en trouble er-gwine. Dat same night de hoss-shoe drop offen de stable do', en dis ve'y mawnin' ex buhd done fly inter de house. Das' er mighty bad hoodoo, er mighty bad boodco!"

"Shucksi" said the major. "You're as loony as old Anthony, with your infernal signs. If your Mars' John's been out all day I reckon he'll turn up before long. I'll wait for him a while." He started in, but paused on the threshold. "Did you say—ah that mint was all gone, Unc' Jefferson?"

Uncle Jefferson's lips relaxed in a wide grin. "Ah reck'n dah's er few stray sprigs left, suh. Step in en mek yo'se'f et home. Ef Mars' John see yo', he be mought'ly hoped up. Ah gwineter mix yo' dat julep in two shakes!"

He disappeared around the corner of the porch and the major strode into the hall, threw his gray slouch hat on the table, and sat down.

It was quiet and peaceful, that ancient hall. He fell to thinking of the many times, of old, when he had sat there. The house was the same again, now. It had waked from a thirtyyears' slumber to a renewed prime. Only he had lived on meanwhile and now was old. He sighed.

How gay the place had been the night of the ball, with the lights and roses and music! He remembered what the doctor had said about Valiant and Shirley-it had lain ever since in his mind, a painful speculation. The recollection roused another thought from which he shrank. He stirred uneasily. What on earth kept that old darky so long over that julep?

A slight noise made him turn his head. But nothing moved. Only a creak of the woodwork, he thought, and settled back again in his chair. It was, in fact, a stealthy footfall he had heard. It came from the library, where a shabby figure crouched, listening, in the corner behind the tapestried screen—a man evilly clad, with a scarred cheek. It had been with no good purpose that Greef King had dogged the major these last few days. He hugged a hot hatred grown to white heat in six years of prison labor within bleak walls at the clicking shoe-machine, or entered from the farther side, through them after the car. an open French window. He tilted it—it was rusted, but there were loads in the chambers. He crouched lower, with a whispered curse: the major was coming into the library, but not alone—the old nigger was with him! But the slight figure with its silver hair, sitting there, was not alone. Ghosts were walking up and down. Not the misty wraiths John Valiant had at times imagined went flitting along the empty corridors, but faces very clear in the sunlight, that came and went with the memories so long woven over by the shuttle of timeevoked now by the touch of a key that her hand still clenched tightly in its palm.

There welled over her in a tide those days of puzzle, the weeks of waiting silence, the slow inexorable months of heartache, the long years that had deepened the mystery of Beauty Valiant's exile. In the first shock of the news that Sassoon had fallen by his hand, she had thought she could not forgive him that broken faith. She and his promise to her had not weighed in the balance against the idea of manly "honor!" But this bitterness had at length slipped away. "He will write," she had told herself, "and explain." But no word had come. Whispers had flitted to her—the tale of Sassoon's intoxication—stinging barbs that clung to Beauty Valiant's name. That these should rest unanswered

From these she had known of his work, his marriage, the great_commercial success for which his name had stoodthe name that from the day of his going, she had so seldom taken upon her morning, after the duel. I never gave lips. Some of them had dealt with his habits and idiosyncrasies, hints of an altered personality, and aloofness grew like marble now. Her slim finor loneliness that had set him apart and made him, in a way, a stranger to those who should have known him best. Thus her mind had come to hold a double image: The grave man He lifted his hand with difficulty and these shadowed forth, and the man she had loved, whose youthful face was in the locket she wore always on her breast. It was this face that was printed on her heart, and when John Valiant had stood before her on the porch at Rosewood, it had seemed to have risen, instinct, from that old grave.

He had not kept silence! He had written! It pealed through her brain like a muffled bell. But Beauty Valiant was gone with her youth; in the room near by lay that old companion who would never speak to her again, the lifelong friend-who had really failed her thirty years ago! . . and in a tin box a mile away lay a let-Shirlev?" She was sitting on the porch just outside the open window, and when she entered, tears were on her face. The doctor drew back silently; but when Valiant would have done so, the major called him nearer.

"No," he panted; "I like to see you two together." His voice was very weak and tired.

As she leaned and touched his hand, he smiled whimsically. "It's mighty curious," he said, "but I can't get it out of my head that its Beauty Valiant and Judith that I'm really talking to. Foolish-isn't it?" But the idea seemed to master him, and presently he began to call Shirley by her mother's name. An odd youthfulness crept into his eyes; a subtle paradoxical boyishness. His cheek tinged with color. The deep lines about his mouth smoothed miraculously out.

"Judith," he whispered, "-yousure you told me the truth a while ago, when you said-you said-" "Yes, yes," Shirley answered, putting her young arm under him, thinking only to soothe the anxiety that

"RESPECTABLE" SALOONS.

A city paper calls attention to the 'boulevard saloon." The boulevards, it asserts, should be kept free from anything so detrimental to the morals of the men, women and children who every summer evening come from the more crowded residence districts to enjoy the purer air and pleasanter sights of these great thoroughfares. 'No matter," it says, "how gilded a place may be where liquor is sold, no. matter how quiet, apparently, it is an unfit place for a boulevard." And where, may we ask, if the saioon is to be made "respectable,' is it fitter than in respectable localities? If the saloon is an evil, if it is a place where "young men and women lose their lives and honor," as this same article says, why should it be foisted upon the poorer districts-upon the people who daily walk to and from office or store, or who take their evening recreation at the theaters or public halls? The saloon is a "fit place" for no one, therefore a fit place nowhere.

PATRIOTIC REASONS. Experiments in the Swiss army have shown that abstainers are the best shots in target practise, and the British army experiments in marching have shown that regiments drinking only water outmarch, in the long run, those that have rations of beer or whisky. The German emperor's word will bear much repeating: "The nation which takes the smallest amount of alcohol will win the battles of the future." And the crown prince of Sweden in 1911, showing that in the industrial contest of nations also, the world's markets belong to the soberest nation said: "That nation which is first to free itself from the injurious effects of alcohol will thereby attain a market advantage over other nations in the amicable yet intensive struggle for existence."

OUT OF A JOB.

The cry is sometimes made that if saloons are voted out, saloonkeepers will lose their jobs, and their families will suffer. Did it ever occur to you that if the saloons are not voted out, hundreds of the patrons of the saloons Rations for chickens should include will lose their jobs and their families

If there are 30 bar rooms in a city, one say that these 30 bar rooms will more than 60 men? Out of the men who patronize these 30 bar rooms, hundreds will be discharged from When damp mashes are fed, they stores, shops, offices, railroads and business should put many times as many men out of a job?

WHICH SHALL LIVE?

The liquor traffic is changing this 'land of the free and home of the brave," into "the land of the spree and the home of the knave." I believe that if this nation lives, the saloon must Remember something very im- die. We are not called upon today to shoulder a gun and go forth to war to suffer the terrible privations of a soldier's life; to, perhaps, bleed or die that our country may be victorious. All that we are called upon to do is to go to the polls and cast a ballot that wiil save our nation. Every man who loves his country should cast the vote that will crush the saloon, the worst enemy of America.-John F. Cunneen (labor leader).

MISAPPLIED TERMS. Modern medical science has demonstrated that there is no such thing as the habitual or even occasional use of alcoholic beverages in so-called "temperate" or "moderate" quantities that is within the zone of safety. Science has demonstrated that there is no reasonable amount that can be taken habitually at longer or shorter intervals that will not be either functionally or organically harmful.—L. D. Mason, M. D.

TOTAL ABSTAINERS FAVORED. The Virginia Pharmaceutical association at its annual convention went on record as favoring state-wide total abstinence. The resolution touching state-wide legislation and an enabling act carried with it the decision of the pharmacists not to ask any special favors of the legislature regarding the sale of alcohol in the event Virginia becomes a dry state.

HARM FROM ALCOHOL.

Other things being equal, the less alcoholic liquors are resorted to the better the chances for the patient's recovery. Alcohol does not nourish, but pulls down; does not stimulate, but depresses; does not strengthen, but excites and exhausts.-Dr. Norman Kerr, England President of the Society for the Study of Inebriety.

WINELESS AND BEERLESS.

The annual dinner given by Typographical Union No. 14 of Harrisburg. Pa., in celebration of Benjamin Franklin's birthday, was wineless and beerless. Its success was so marked that. it is said, all future dinners and entertainments given by the union will be free from intoxicating liquors.

The 116th annual commencement of Transylvania University, TYPICAL NEWSPAPER COMMENT ON THE REDPATH CHAUTAUQUA OF 1913

The Tri-City Daily, Florence, Ala., says: "Florence has been captured entirely by the Redpath Chautauqua and it is a safe bet that the chautauqua will not be allowed to pass this city by in the future."

In an editorial in the Albany, Ga., Herald this statement is made: "Thru this big organization with a string of 110 chautauguas scheduled we were enabled to have attractions that we could not have secured for a single assembly."

The Dyersburg, Tenn., State Gazette said editorially: "We will all be sorry when it becomes necessary for them to fold their tents, but unlike the Arabs it will not be necessary for them to steal away.

The Clarksville, Tenn., Leaf-Chronicle "Now that our good people know from actual experience just what are the possibilities of the Chautauqua movement they are unanimously agreed as to its great helpfulness to a community."

The Birmingham, Ala., Age-Herald says: The tent which holds over 2000 persons was well filled when the performance began last night and altho the weather was hot every part of the program was received with much enthusiasm. Indications are that from now on large crowds will patronize the chautauqua performances. The Redpath agency which is giving the program is well known as one of the foremost booking agencies of the world.

The Alpena, Mich., Echo: "When Mr. Rheinfrank asked those of the audience who would like a chautaugua in Aplena next year to stand, the entire audience arose. It was necessary to call an imposing vote.

The Battle Creek, Mich., Enquirer: "The Best Ever Chautauqua grows more popular with each succeeding entertainment.

The Gary, Ind., Post: "It is doubtful if any chautaugua in any city has ever had such overwhelming success during its first year as the Redpath Chautauqua had here during its present engagement."
